Cultural and Literary Ireland

Join poet, educator, and New York Times' bestselling author Kwame Alexander on a journey into Ireland's vibrant literary arts scene that brings you into the worlds of some of history's most renowned writers. In the heart of Dublin, immortalized by James Joyce, explore the city's relationship to the many writers it has produced—and meet a prominent contemporary Irish author for a personal perspective on writing in Ireland today. Travel into Northern Ireland, on the trail of Samuel Beckett and C.S. Lewis, and cap off the trip in the tranquil countryside Seamus Heaney called home. Along the way, enjoy exclusive literary events and explore the unique connection between the millions of emigrants who left Ireland over the centuries and the country it is today.

Trip Highlights

- Take a guided tour of the Museum of Literature Ireland with the museum's director, then meet with a prominent Irish author for a specially arranged book club-style discussion.
- Attend an exclusive event with a local literary non-profit and hear how Ireland is using its storied past to inspire young readers and connect people and poetry throughout the country.
- Discover the history of theater in Dublin on a walking tour and meet with theater-makers for a workshop at the famed Abbey Theater.
- Visit the Glyde Inn, located in the picturesque 'Wee' County, and meet with an author to discuss how the rugged landscape inspired C.S. Lewis; then experience Belfast on a private tour and learn how this industrial city shaped Lewis' imagination as a young boy.
- Take an excursion to Seamus Heaney HomePlace and immerse yourself in the landscapes that informed the poet's work; join a local poet or scholar for a workshop on Heaney's poetry.

Itinerary

Day 1: Introduction to Dublin

Arrival on individual flights and transfer independently to your Dublin hotel (check in may not be available until this 3 p.m.). Gather with fellow travelers for a brief overview tour of Dublin, including the Georgian neighborhood where Oscar Wilde once lived, the statue of Irish musician and writer Phil Lynott, and Merrion Square, where a statue of Nelson Mandela marks twenty years of his imprisonment. Enjoy a private tour of St. Patrick's Cathedral, where Jonathan Swift served as dean, and a visit to the adjacent Marsh's Library, Ireland's first public library, which opened in 1707. After some time at your hotel to freshen up, dine together at a welcome dinner with an introduction to your week by expert Kwame Alexander. Meals: D

Day 2: Dublin: Past, Present, and Future Literary Encounters

Visit the Museum of Literature Ireland (MoLI) including a guided tour of the museum's historic building by Director Simon O'Connor. Participate in an exclusive book club experience with a prominent Irish author facilitated by Simon O'Connor (author to be confirmed). Attend an event with a local non-profit like Children's Book Ireland or Poetry Ireland and learn how the country is inspiring young readers and securing a future for Irish literature that is as celebrated as its past. Dinner and the rest of the evening will be yours to enjoy in Dublin. Meals: B

Day 3: Dublin: From the Page to the Stage

This morning, visit EPIC: The Irish Emigration Museum and uncover the stories of more than 10 million people who emigrated from Ireland over the centuries - why they left, where they went, and how a small country made such a big impact on the world. A permanent collection contains dozens of letters to home written by Irish emigrants; additional thematic exhibits in 2024 will be announced at a later date. Then turn to the stage for a theater-themed walking tour that highlights Dublin's ties to the lives and legacies of Irish playwrights past and present, from George Bernard Shaw and J.M. Synge to Enda Walsh. After some time at leisure, participate in a private afternoon workshop at the Abbey Theatre led by professional actors or theatre-makers that explores playwriting, acting, directing, or perhaps even puppetry. This evening, you will have the option to explore Dublin on your own or join expert Kwame Alexander for an evening of live music at a local jazz and blues club. Information for the music venue will be announced at a later date, and tickets will be a small supplemental cost. Meals: B

Day 4: Dublin to Belfast: In the Footsteps of C.S. Lewis

Depart Dublin by motorcoach and enter 'Wee' County Louth, the smallest county in Ireland. Enjoy a coffee break and meet with a local author at the Glyde Inn to discuss how C.S. Lewis was likely inspired by the misty peaks of the nearby Mourne Mountains. Continue to Belfast for a private "Beyond the Wardrobe" tour that explores the life story and local influences of C.S. Lewis, who was born in east Belfast in 1898. Delve into the author's views on friendship as seen through his Narnia series. Pause at a life-sized statue of American abolitionist Frederick Douglass, the first statue in Europe of a Black statesman, and learn of his unique relationship with Belfast's Anti Slavery Society. Continue the discussion of Irish-American relations as you dine as a group this evening. Meals: B, D

Day 5: Seamus Heaney's Northern Ireland

Sojourn to the shores of Lough Neagh, where Seamus Heaney spent much of his life. Visit Seamus Heaney HomePlace, a literary center situated between the poet's childhood homes and his final resting place. Enjoy a workshop on the works of Seamus Heaney led by a lecturer or local poet. Venture to "Open Ground," important locations that link the landscape to Heaney's literature for a private tour. Return to Belfast to toast your literary adventure during a farewell dinner at a local restaurant. Meals: B, D

Day 6: Belfast to Dublin/Departure

Check out of your hotel this morning and transfer to Dublin Airport for individual flights home. The transfer will take approximately two hours. Meals: B
